The Aussie
Bloke
(SSLC)

"The Aussie Bloke" was made using coloured pencils. It includes thongs, a line from our national anthem, an Aussie bloke, beer and handprints. The thongs are Australian as well as the man and the beer. "Our land is girt by sea" is my favourite part of the national anthem. The handprints represent Aborigines. Overall, this artwork is quite Australian.

Second Prize:
Thomas Horne
Killer Shark
(SSCPS)

My inspiration for painting 'Killer Shark' was from my love of sharks. I believe we need to respect them and learn to live and play with them in our waters. The waters of Australia are their natural habitat and we should respect their home. I love reading and watching programs about sharks to better understand them. I think they are a beautiful animal but can be deadly if we do not respect their place in nature. I think conservation of sharks is very important and we humans need to live with them, not kill them.

Third Prize:
Emily Rose
Australian Coat of Arms
(SSLC)

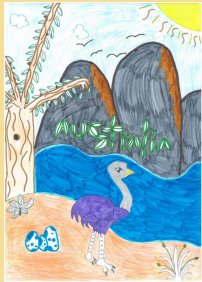

This is a picture of the Australian Coat of Arms situated in an Australian landscape with Australian animals.

SECTION TWO
Highly Commended:

Janaya Dunnett
Adventures for Mothers
(GWSS)

On a hot summer's day a mother emu travels far to lay her baby eggs. There is a river to drink out of and some plants to eat nearby, so they don't starve to death.

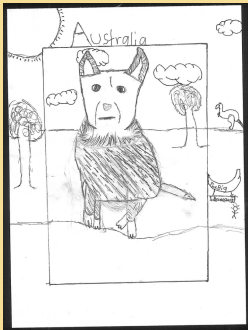

Caitlin Goggi
Outback Australia
(YSS)

The picture is the sunset at Uluru. I used colour pencil to draw the sky and I used prints for the ground.

Liam Jenkins
Border Collie
(WSS)

Around where I live, there are lots of dogs that look like this. They are farm dogs that round up cattle.
