

CREATE A DIARY

-  Diaries are personal accounts of incidents, events and feelings. We can learn a great deal about the past by looking at different thoughts and points of view that people recorded in their diaries.
-  Place yourself in the position of someone associated with one of the shipwreck stories you have learned about. It could be a passenger, a survivor, a family member ashore, a crew member or a witness.
-  Write a diary entry for a day or two days, thinking about what you would like to express if you were this person.
-  Remember to write in character – try to use the language your person would use.
